DELHI-THIRUVANANTAPURAM-ODAYAM-KOTTAYAM-KOZHIKODE-MUMBAI-LONI

30 dagars hektisk tjänsteresa för Sydasiennätverket SASNET av Anna Lindberg och Lars Eklund, med lika många (30) besök till universitet och forskningsinstitutioner i västra delen av Indien. Likväl tid även för personliga upplevelser och möten med spännande människor. Följ med på första delen av färden, till Delhi, Kerala, Mumbai och Loni, en berättelse som naturligtvis också innefattar vår officiella reserapport.

Delhi:

Thursday 1 November 2007:

We left Sweden on Wednesday 31 October 2007, and arrived in New Delhi by the Lufthansa flight in the early hours of the next day. A taxi came to pick us up at the airport and took us to the Nordic Centre in India flat, in Nizamuddin East.

Back in Delhi after a couple of years we had great expectations, having read so much during the past years about the enormous progress being made in Delhi, and the improved environmental situation due to the shift over to Compressed Natural Gas (CNG) as fuel for the vehicles.

Nevertheless, driving through the city at night on bumpy roads mostly under repair (with occasional new-built flyovers crossing the way), the dirty smog surrounding us, it felt as if Delhi was much the same city as it used to be. The vision of a shining Delhi still a dream, even though no doubt the air actually has become less polluted.

We were given accommodations at the Nordic Centre in India (NCI) flat in Nizamuddin East, off Mathura Road, one of the many gated communities in south-central Delhi. This is an oasis for academic visitors to Delhi if, like us, they happen to come from a member institution in the NCI university consortium. It is well-run locally by the energetic Delhi manager Mr. P.N. Malik (photo to the right).

Our first scheduled meeting was to be held in the afternoon, a visit to the Centre for Science and Environment (CSE).

Report from the Centre for Science and Environment (CSE)

In the evening we were invited for dinner to Stefan Jonsson (photo to the left) and his wife Seema in their Chanakyapuri flat. Since August 2007, Stefan is working as Counsellor for Science and Technology at the Swedish Embassy (formally employed by the Swedish Institute for Growth Policy Studies, ITPS). He has a background in Economics from the Centre for Research on Innovation and Industrial Dynamics (CIND), Uppsala University and most recently at Stockholm School of Economics. In the early 1990s he was working for some years with the Swedish Sida supported Social Forestry project carried out in the Indian state of Orissa. His mission for ITPS consists to a large extent in establishing contacts within the fields of research and science.

Seema Jonsson is a researcher from the Dept. of Urban and Rural Development, Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences (SLU) in Uppsala. In 2005, she defended her doctoral thesis on "Unsettling the Order: Gendered subjects and Grassroots activism in two forest communities". During her stay in New Delhi she is affiliated with the Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU).

Friday 2 November 2007:

A hectic day starting with a visit to the Institute of Social Sciences (ISS), located at 8, Nelson Mandela Marg in New Delhi. From ISS we went to the Centre for the Study of Developing Societies (CSDS) at 29 Rajpur Road. In the evening a reception and dinner was organised in honour of SASNET at the Swedish Embassy in New Delhi by the Counsellor Anders Sjöberg (seen on the photo to the right along with Lars Eklund and Anna Lindberg).

Saturday 3 November 2007:

Full day meeting with SASNET's South Asian Reference Group (see http://www.sasnet.lu.se/asiareggroup.html) at the NCI flat in Nizamuddin East.

Sunday 4 November 2007:

A resting day after some very hectic days. Our only mission for the day was to have lunch with Dr. Manoj Sinha and his family, living in Noida (Sector 21) on the other side of Yamuna, giving us an opportunity to try the new toll bridge over to Noida. Dr. Sinha is currently working at the Indian Society of International Law, but has a Swedish connection in the fact that he was a Guest Professor at the Raoul Wallenberg Institute for Humanitarian Law, Lund University in 2005.

Monday 5 November 2007

Another hectic day in Delhi, visiting both TERI (The Energy and Resources Institute) at India Habitat Centre, and the Developing Countries Research Centre (DCRC) at Delhi University. In the evening we also visited the Vice-Chancellor of Delhi University, and had a dinner meeting with researchers from the natural sciences at Delhi University north campus, hosted by Prof. K. Sreenivas, Dean International Relations, Delhi University.

In the morning we visited the University Grants Commission (UGC) and met its Director, Prof. Sukhadeo Thorat. In the afternoon we went to another of the major Delhi universities, the Jamia Millia Islamia University, where a meeting was held with Prof. Lakshmi Subramaniam from the Department of History. We were also introduced to the Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Mushirul Hasan.

In the evening we had a meeting over dinner with Prof. Bishnu Mohapatra from the Centre for Political Studies at Jawaharlal Nehru Studies at Jawaharlal Nehru University, at the India International Centre near to Lodi Gardens.

Prof. Mohapatra (photo to the right) is well-known to SASNET and Swedish researchers, through collaborative research projects with Dr. Hans Blomkvist, Dept. of Government, Uppsala University, and Dr. Catarina Kinnvall, Dept. of Political Science, Lund University. (Staffan Lindberg and Lars Eklund also met Prof. Mohapatra during their SASNET South Asian contact journey in March 2002. Read the report from the meeting).

Since several years, Prof. Mohapatra is also connected to the Ford Foundation, working as Program Officer at its South Asia office in New Delhi, being responsible for Ford Foundation's funding activities in India, Nepal and Sri Lanka.

Wednesday 7 November 2007

After a week in Delhi it was now time to fly south, all the way down to Thiruvanthapuram, capital of the south-western state of Kerala. Our Jet Airways flight departed Delhi at 8 o'clock in the morning, and via a technical stop-over in Mumbai we landed at Trivandrum International Airport five hours later. We went straight away to the Centre for Development Studies (CDS), located outside the city, where we were given accommodation in its simple but very charming guest house. Dr. J. Devika, our SASNET reference group member, had arranged for a meeting with the CDS Director Prof. K.N. Nair in the afternoon. In the evening Prof. Nair also took us out for a buffet dinner at Mascot Hotel in the central part of Thiruvananthapuram.

Thursday 8 November 2007

Diwali Day, a holiday all over India. Still we managed to visit the Trivandrum Medical College (TMC), deeply involved in collaboration with Karolinska Institutet Medical University in Sweden. We were hosted by Prof. K.T. Shenoy, new Dean for the Faculty of Medicine, Kerala University, shown around the campus, and and had a fruitful meeting in the Principal's office.

Prof. Shenoy then brought us to the independent Population Health and Research Institute, run by Prof. Shenoy and colleagues. The institute is doing good work on research concerning tobacco and its health hazards.

The rest of the day we wandered around the city of Thiruvananthapuram, a city currently changing fast. Old traditional houses in the city centre are demolished, giving way for a widening of roads and construction of modern buildings.

Report from Trivandrum Medical College (TMC)

Friday 9 November 2007

In the morning we visited Loyola College of Social Science, affiliated to the University of Kerala, and in the afternoon we visited the Department of Communication and Journalism at the University of Kerala Kariavattom Campus. Both the institutions have Swedish connections, Loyola College with Österlen Folk High School in Tomelilla, and the Dept. of Communication and Journalism with Karlstad University.

In the evening we travelled by taxi to Odayam, a fishing village north of the tourist resort Varkala. Here we spent the weekend relaxing.

Kottayam

Monday 12 November 2007

Departure from Odayam at 06.30, travel by road four hours north along the coast to Kottayam. Accommodation at Hotel Homestead, near the Kottayam Railway Station, and opposite to the office of Malayala Manorama, the leading newspaper of Kerala. At 11.00 a meeting was organised for us at the School of Social Sciences, Mahatma Gandhi University. The Director, Dr. Rajan Gurukkal, unfortunately had had to go to Delhi, but we were hosted by hos colleagues instead.

In the afternoon we made visits to the most renowned of the Syrian Orthodox churches that Kottayam is full of.

Report from School of Social Sciences, Mahatma Gandhi University

Kozhikode

Comfortable train journey in chair car from Kottayam. After six hours we arrived in the beautiful city of Kozhikode (formerly known as Calicut) at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and proceeded straight away to the Indian Institute of Management (IIM) in Kunnamangalam, 15 km outside the city centre. From Kottayam with its large Christian population and many churches we now came to the Malabar region, to some extent dominated by Muslims. Along the excellent roads we passed several mosques and Islamic schools.

IIMK is located on a picturesque hillside, with a wonderful view over the palm-covered landscape of central Kerala from every nook and corner of IIMK. The airy buildings of the institute, as well as the hostels, guesthouses and the residential buildings for the professors, all beautifully designed by the architectural firm Mani Chowfla in New Delhi only five years ago, add to the charm of the place.

Since we were provided with rooms in one of the guesthouses, we were able to have meetings with faculty members both in the evening and the next morning, before our onward journey to Mumbai.

Wednesday 14 November 2007

In the afternoon we flew with a Jet Airways flight from Kozhikode, and arrived in Mumbai at 4 o'clock (view from the air just before the landing on the photo to the right). We proceeded straight away to the University of Mumbai and its Kalina Campus located in Vidyanagari, Santa Cruz East. There we were accommodated in one of the university guest houses. Our host was Dr. Rajesh Kharat, a political scientist from the Department of Civics & Politics, Dr. Kharat has been connected to SASNET since 2002, when he came to Lund University and held a SASNET guest lecture on "The Bhutan Refugee Problem". He is a qualified expert on Bhutan, Tibet, the refugee situation in the region, and more generally about the political and economic cooperation in South Asia, in 1999 he published the book "Bhutan in SAARC: Role of a Small State in a Regional Alliance".

Thursday 15 November 2007

The day was devoted to a visit to the prominent Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Bombay, at Powai in the northeastern part of Mumbai. Our programme had been organised by Prof. Pradipta P. Banerjee, Dean for International Relations, and the departments of Civil Engineering, Computer Science and Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, and Electrical Engineering. On the way back to Santa Cruz we spent some time on place crowded with people

In the evening a Jet Airways flight to Aurangabad, reaching there at 9 P.M. A car was waiting for us to bring us to Pravara Rural Health University in Loni, a three hours drive westwards on bumpy Mahashtrian roads.
