Resebrev Nr 121 18 november- 1 december 2007 ELLORA CAVES-MUMBAI-PUNE-BANGALORE-MYSORE

Fortsättning på månadslång hektisk tjänsteresa för Sydasiennätverket SASNET med besök till en lång rad universitet och forskningsinstitutioner i västra delen av Indien. Läs vår sällsynt detaljerade reserapport med fungerande länkar till samtliga platser och institutioner vi besökte. Avslutande delen av resan gick till Mumbai (för andra gången), Pune, Bangalore och Mysore. Men först gjorde vi en avstickare till de oerhört fascinerande Ellora-grottorna nära Aurangabad i Maharashtra, som jämte de närliggande Ajantagrottorna tillhör Indiens främsta arkeologiska sevärdheter.

ELLORA CAVES

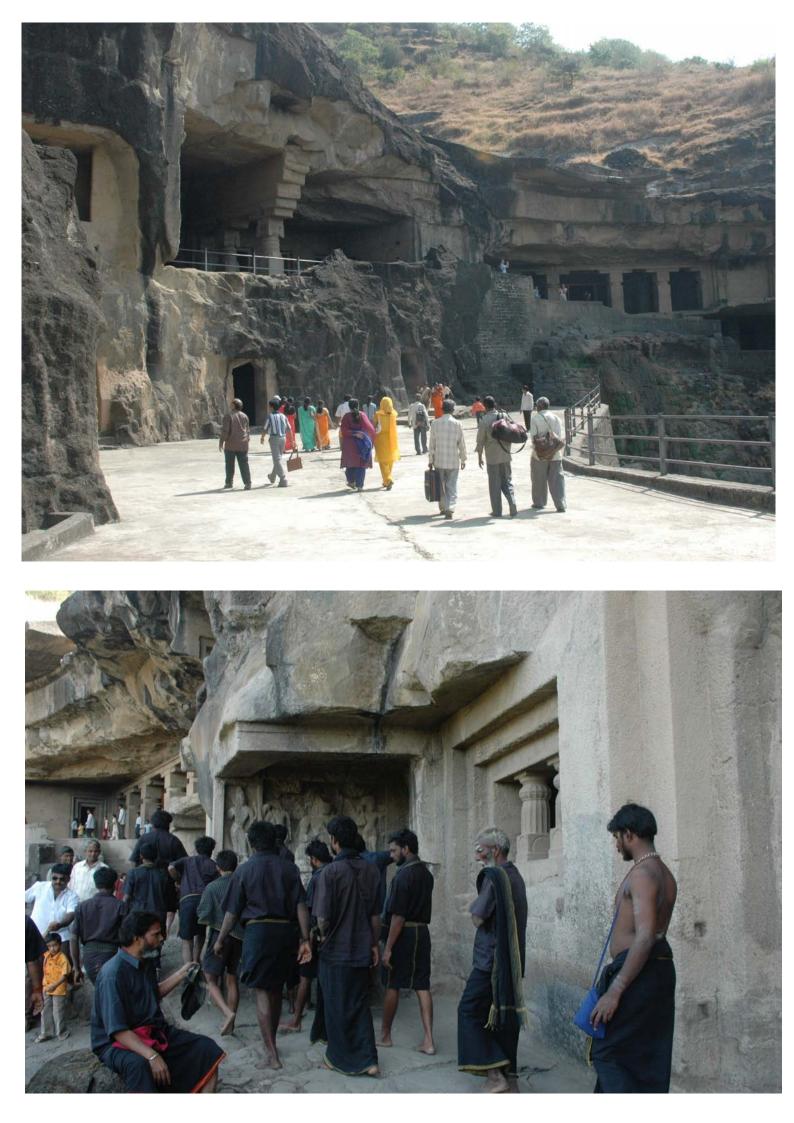

Ellora is a UNESCO World Heritage Site located in the Aurangabad district of Maharashtra. It is one of the largest rock-cut monastery-temple cave complexes in the world, featuring Hindu,Buddhist and Jaina monuments, and artwork, dating from the 600–1000 CE period. Cave 16, in particular, features the largest single monolithic rock excavation in the world, the Kailash Temple, a chariot shaped monument dedicated to Lord Shiva. The Kailash temple excavation also features sculptures depicting the gods, goddesses and mythologies found in Vaishnavism, Shaktism, as well as relief panels summarizing the two major Hindu Epics.

There are over 100 caves at the site, all excavated from the basalt cliffs in the Charanandri Hills, 34 of which are open to public. These consist of 12 Buddhist (caves 1–12), 17 Hindu (caves 13–29) and 5 Jain (caves 30–34) caves each group representing deities and mythologies prevalent in the 1st millennium CE, as well as monasteries of each respective religion.¹ They were built close to one another and illustrate the religious harmony that existed in ancient India. All of the Ellora monuments were built during the Rashtrakuta dynasty, which constructed part of the Hindu and Buddhist caves, and the Yadava dynasty, which constructed a number of the Jain caves. Funding for the construction of the monuments was provided by royals, traders and the wealthy of the region.

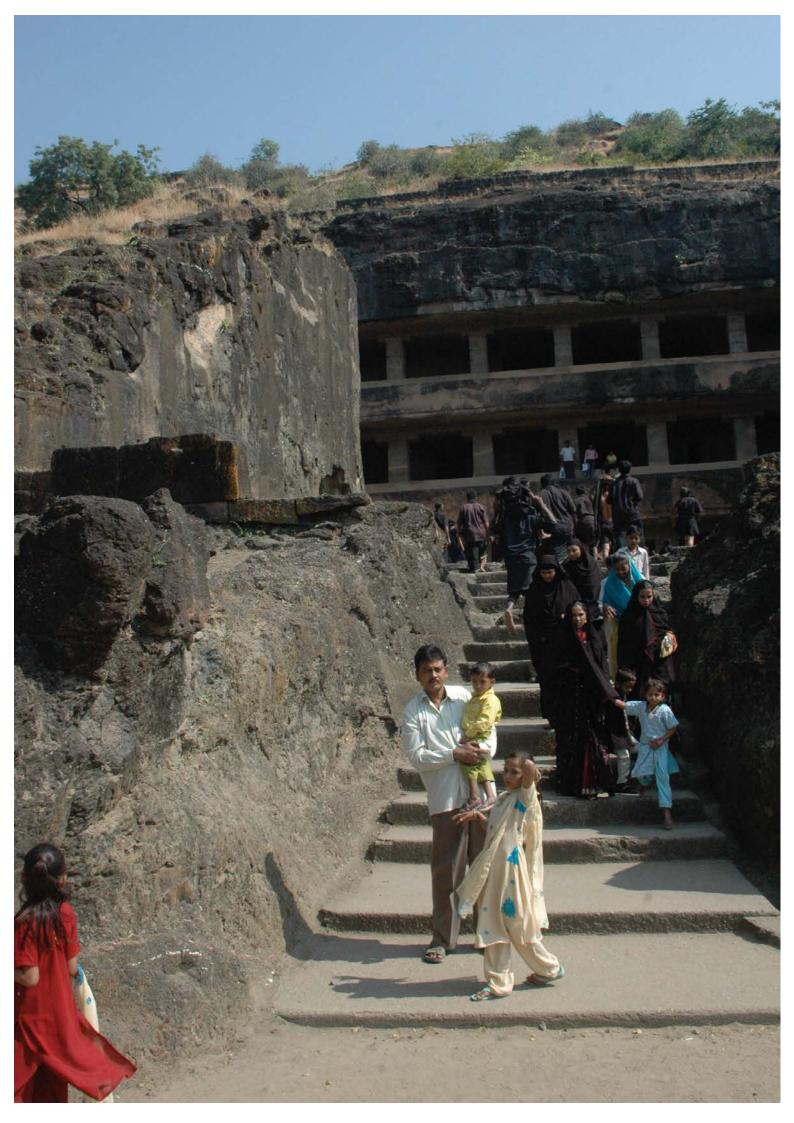

Although the caves served as monasteries, temples and a rest stop for pilgrims, the site's location on an ancient South Asian trade route also made it an important commercial centre in the Deccan region. It is 29 kilometres north-west of Aurangabad. Today, the Ellora Caves, along with the nearby Ajanta Caves, are a major tourist attraction in the Marathwada region and a protected monument under the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI). Monday 19 November 2007

Jet Airways flight from Aurangabad back to Mumbai, and the WRIC (Western Regional Instrumentation Centre) guest house at the University of Mumbai Kalina Campus in Vidyanagari, Santa Cruz East. Visits to the University of Mumbai in the afternoon.

Report from University of Mumbai/ Dept. of Civics and Politics & Dept. of History

Tuesday 20 November 2007

Visit to the Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS).

Report from the Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS)

Since this was our final night in Mumbai, we managed to meet our host Dr. Kharat, after his return from an official journey to Delhi. We invited him, along with his wife Barthi, to a most delicious dinner in the authentic China House restaurant - one of India's most splendid restaurants and Mumbai's celebrity den No. 1, according to India Today magazine 16 Nov. 2007 within the Hotel Grand Hyatt in Vidyanagari (photo). It was only a short distance away from the University of Mumbai Kalina Campus. We had good discussions with Dr. Kharat on how to interact more in the future.

Wednesday 21 November 2007

We had an ambition to meet the Vice Chancellor of the University of Mumbai, but unfortunately it was not possible. Instead we had a meeting with Dr. V.N. Magare, Director of the Board of College and University Development, to discuss possible Indo-Swedish collaboration on students exchange. After that, Anna gave a lecture for the students at the Dept. of Civics and Politics, before we checked out from the rooms at the guest house and proceeded to Chhatrapati Shivaji Terminus (formerly Victoria Terminus) in central Mumbai.

Pune

After a pleasant three hours train journey in chair car with the Sinhagad Express we reached Pune with its significantly cooler climate in the early evening.

We were picked up at the railway station and taken to the Orchid Learning and Development Centre (Orchid School), a private trust institution involved in Örebro University's India Project since 1994. The driving force behind Orchid School, Ms. Lakshmi Kumar (photo to the right), welcomed us to Pune, and quite unexpectedly for us a big reception had been organised in the evening with invited "Swindian" guests, speeches and delicious maharashtrian food in honour of our visit to Pune. The guests included several people involved in different exchange programmes with Swedish universities, and also the students in Social Work from the universities of Örebro, Östersund, Stockholm, Lund and Göteborg that spent the autumn 2007 in Pune, doing fieldwork within the framework of the India Project. A few of them, we had actually met a week earlier in Varkala, Kerala. Ms. Kanishka from the Orchid School had been kind enough to finalise our programme for the three days we were going to stay in Pune, including a visit back to Orchid School on the final day in town. We were accommodated in the Sahara Hotel, close to the beautiful Chaturshringi Temple on Senapati Bapat Road.

Report from the Orchid Learning and Development Centre (Orchid School)

Thursday 22 November 2007

Visiting Pune University, both the Dept. of Environmental Sciences, involved in collaboration with Jönköping University, the Women's Studies Centre, and the International Students Centre.

In the evening we managed to meet the Vice Chancellor, Dr. Narendra Jadhav. Inbetween, in the afternoon, we visited the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics.

Friday 23 November 2007

In the morning we visited the National Chemical Laboratory (NCL), an institution in close collaboration with the Dept. of Biotechnology in Lund. After lunch at Orchid School, we proceeded in the afternoon to the Institute of Tropical Meteorology, also involved in Swedish collaboration, with the Dept. of Meteorology in Stockholm and the Water Resources Engineering division in Lund.

In the evening we met the American scholar Dr. Gail Omvedt who has been residing in Maharashtra for many years. She is now working as coordinator at the School of Social Justice (SSJ), Pune University. We spent the evening together, having dinner at the charming Sarovar outdoor restaurant.

Saturday 24 November 2007

Leaving Pune at noon, with a Kingfisher Airlines flight to Bangalore.

Bangalore

We arrived in Bangalore at around 3 P.M. and hired a taxi to take us through the maddening traffic of Bangalore to Nagarbhavi in the extreme south of the city, and the Institute of Social and Economic Change (ISEC) guest house. Prof. R.S. Deshpande, Head for the Agricultural Development and Rural Transformation Centre at ISEC, had kindly arranged for us to stay in the guest house during our Bangalore visit. Dr. Deshpande is well-known to us since he has had several research cooperation projects with Sweden and Denmark, and he convened a panel (together with Dr. Neelambar Hatti, Lund University) on "Institutions and Agricultural Development" at the 18th European Conference on Modern South Asian Studies, that SASNET organised in Lund in 2004 (more information about the panel).

Unfortunately for us, Dr. Deshpande was not at ISEC when we arrived, since he had had to go on an official tour to Delhi, and neither had a joint meeting been possible to organise with the researchers at the institute. However, we managed to arrange for a meting with the ISEC Director, Dr. N. Jayaram late on Saturday afternoon.

Report from Institute of Social and Economic Change (ISEC)

Sunday 25 November 2007

Resting day. Lunch with Saras Ganapathy and Girish Karnad (photo to the right), friends of Lars, in their JP Nagar house just south of the Bangalore city centre. We were offered to move over here from Nagarbhavi, and so we did the following day.

Monday 26 November 2007

Visit to Indian Institute of Science (IISc), the top-ranked Indian university all categories, and an institution involved in several Indo-Swedish collaboration programmes.

Report from Indian Institute of Science (IISc)

Tuesday 27 November 2007

Visit to Indian Institute of Management (IIM Bangalore), with a meeting at the Centre for Public Policy (CPP), involved in collaboration with several Swedish universities. By chance we also met Mr. Stefan Jonsson, Counsellor for Science and Technology at the Swedish Embassy in New Delhi, at IIMB. We last met him three weeks earlier in Delhi. He had come to Bangalore with a delegation of people from the Region Västra Götaland (Västra Götalandsregionen), here to develop collaboration in different fields, including education, trade, culture, etc, with the regional Karnataka state government. A new form of development assistance that the Swedish government promotes. We had a nice conversation with Mr. Jonsson, discussing our impressions and experiences from our one-month tour in India, visiting 30 different universities and research institutions.

Report from Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Bangalore

In the afternoon we visited Christ College, affiliated to Bangalore University. In 2005, the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) – an independent Council under the Indian University Grants Commission (UGC) – declared Christ College to be a "College with Potential for Excellence", the first of its kind in Karnataka. Christ College has collaboration agreements with universities in many countries, including Trondheim, and has set up a number of specialised research centres. More information about Christ College, Bangalore.

However, the only thing we knew about Christ College before coming to Bangalore was that a upper secondary school in southern Sweden, Österportgymnasiet in Ystad, had sent students for fieldwork there in 2006. One of the students with whom we had been in contact, Viktoria Hansson (photo to the left), then returned in the Fall 2007 to participate in a training programme that Christ College, through its Centre for Social Action (CSA), organises in collaboration with the Norwegian government funded organisation Fredskorpset (Peace Corps). We had made an appointment with Viktoria to meet her at Christ College to show us around the premises and the campus, which she did. By chance, it then also turned out that this was the second and last day of an International conference that the Centre for Social Action held at Christ College, a conference focusing on "Women in Emerging Indian"

Economy – Silence to Voice: Problems and Possibilities". The conference was organised in collaboration with Fredscorpset and Drik India in Kolkata, and when the participants came out from the session hall, to our surprise it turned out that several researchers and activists well-known to us were participating. More information about the conference.

Mysore

Wednesday 28 November 2007

We left Bangalore with the Shatabdi Express train at 11 A.M. and reached Mysore in exactly two hours time. In accordance with the Indian tradition, we were heartily welcomed at the railway station with flower garlands by Dr. Suresh Patil from the Anthropological Survey of India (ASI), and Dr. Kikkeri Narayana from the Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL), who had been kind enough to plan for our programme in Mysore.

After some hectic weeks mostly spent in big cities in India with their high levels of air pollution, it was pleasant to arrive at the beautiful, small city of Mysore where the air felt fresh and clean. The city has many historical buildings connected to the Maharaja of Mysore (the main palace on the photo to the right), and in many parts the city looks like a museum of architecture. It is known as the cultural capital of Karnataka, and it is also famous for having a pleasant climate all year round.

We went straight to to the wonderful new-built guest house (truly the best guest house we have ever experienced anywhere) belonging to the CIIL, where we were going to stay for two nights. Afther lunch, we proceeded for meetings at the Anthropological Survey of India.

Report from Anthropological Survey of India

Thursday 29 November 2007

Visiting the Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL) in the morning, meeting its dynamic Director, Prof. Udaya Narayana Singh and his colleagues. In the afternoon visiting University of Mysore, meeting the Vice Chancellor and the Chairs of several faculties. Also round tour of the university and a visit to some of the departments, kindly organised by Lawrence Surendra, holder of the Planning Commission Professorial Chair at the Department of Economics.

Report from Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL)

Report from University of Mysore

In the evening, Lawrence Surendra, who has spent long time in Sweden and has several Swedish collaboration partners, kindly invited us to visit his farmhouse outside Mysore, and having dinner with his wife Pushpa.

Bangalore (again)

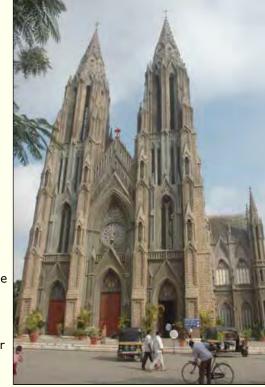

Friday 30 November 2007

We had a short sightseeing tour of the charming city of Mysore – recently said to be one of the ten most attractive Indian cities to live in (according to the India Today magazine), and saw its magnificent maharaja palace and the beautiful St. Philomena's Cathedral (photo to the right). It is true, Mysore is still a rather peaceful place and the traffic is nothing compared to Bangalore. Still we had to leave Mysore, and go back to Bangalore, this time by taxi. We came just in time for our last scheduled meeting, for a visit to the Centre for the Study of Culture & Society (CSCS).

Report from Centre for the Study of Culture & Society (CSCS)

In the evening, Anna flew back to Thiruvananthapuram with a Kingfisher Airlines flight, to spend the coming four weeks again working on her ongoing research project on changing marital traditions in South India. Anna returned back to Sweden on Sunday, December 23.

Lars spent his last evening in Bangalore meeting his old friend and colleague from the SYDASIEN magazine, the Swedish writer Zac O'Yeah, since some years permanently residing in Bangalore with his wife, the poet Anjum Hasan. Lars and Zac (photo to the right) had dinner at the legendary Koshy's Restaurant in central Bangalore, before Lars had to proceed to the airport in the middle of the night and fly back home to Sweden with a Lufthansa flight. Back to work at the SASNET root node office in Lund.
